

9, 10, 12, 21 reach GNT-A semifinals

Teams from Florida, California, Michigan and Louisiana/Alabama survived quarterfinal matches Thursday to enter the semifinals of the Grand National Teams, Flight A, today.

The semifinalists:

District 9 (Florida): Jeff Wolfson, Robert Levin, Jeff Meckstroth, Neil Silverman, Richard Pavlicek and Michael Seamon.

District 10 (Louisiana/Alabama): Hjordis Eythorsdottir, Curtis Cheek, Steve Beatty and John Onstott.

District 12 (Michigan): Allan Falk, Geoff Hampson, Perry Johnson and Chuck Burger.

District 21 (California): Jan Martel, Chip Martel, Sally Woolsey, Kit Woolsey, JoAnna Stansby, Lew Stansby.

In the semifinals, the matchups are 9 vs. 21 and 10 vs. 12.

The Falk team is seeking to improve on its second-place finish in last year's GNT-A. They were defeated in the final by a District 21 team, although only Chip Martel and Lew Stansby returned from that squad.

In Thursday's quarterfinal play, District 9 clobbered District 6, 155-50; District 21 defeated District 18, 139-100; District 10 ousted District 22, 151-69, and District 12 got by District 24, 99-87.

Smoking rules

If you wish to smoke, there is only one area inside the Albuquerque Convention Center where you may do so -- in the Northwest Exhibit Hall on the ground level. Otherwise you must go outside the Convention Center to smoke. By city ordinance, smoking is not allowed in any other part of the Convention Center.

Jane Johnson's tour of District 17 wins plaudits

For Jane Johnson, manager of ACBL's club-membership department, a visit to District 17 to promote the Summer NABC in Albuquerque was "like a week-long coffee -- with extras."

Johnson has hosted Coffee with Jane for club owners at every Summer NABC since the Las Vegas tournament in 1991. This year's get-together is scheduled for 10 a.m. to noon Saturday in Fiesta 1 and 2 at the Hyatt.

Johnson's 11-day trek began in Las Vegas June 11 and ended in Denver June 21. The purpose: to visit clubs and promote bridge in the district that is hosting an NABC.

Johnson was acquainted with most of the managers through phone calls over the years, but this was their first face-to-face meeting. She found them to be "hard-working, extremely friendly people. All the clubs are very well run and the people -- managers and players -- were very glad to have someone from ACBL visiting them."

Johnson, who has headed the Club Department since 1984 and the Membership Department since 1985, said the trip was "something I had wanted to do for a

Green to retire as CEO

CEO Roy Green of the ACBL has announced that he intends to retire from the position of Chief Executive Officer. Green's agreement with the ACBL is to serve until the new chief executive comes on board. At the request of the Board of Directors, Green has agreed to continue with the ACBL in an advisory capacity until at least the end of 1998.

President Howard Piltch expressed his "appreciation for the dedication and commitment that Roy has exhibited these past five years. Much progress has been made under his leadership." Piltch also thanked Green for his willingness to assist in the selection of his successor.

Among the ACBL's major accomplishments during Green's tenure are:

1. Five consecutive years of profitable operations.
2. Cash reserves at an all-time high.
3. Creation of the Membership Assistance Department where 13,000 calls are responded to monthly.
4. Prompt delivery of the Bridge Bulletin on or about the first of each month.
5. Institution of the Bridge Hall of Fame and the expansion of the Albert Morehead Memorial Library.

CEO Roy Green

President Piltch will appoint a search committee which will include Green. This committee will enlist the assistance of an executive recruiting firm to help in the search for a new CEO. Piltch further stated that "the search would not be a hurried one." He stressed the importance of selecting "an outstanding candidate to head the ACBL in the challenging times ahead."

The check presentation to CLN and the local chapter of the Salvation Army was made during the Stratified Charity Open Pairs Thursday night. Each received $2500.

Computer bridge challenge seeks human competitors

The organizers of the Baron Barclay World Computer Bridge Challenge are looking for humans to play for scrip and prizes. You can sign up in the main playing area at the Convention Center for a session at 9 a.m. Monday or Wednesday.

On Wednesday between sessions, one player will have a chance in a special challenge to win an airline ticket donated by Liberty Travel and World Bridge Productions.

The bridge challenge, a weeklong series of computer matches and demonstrations, will kick off with two special IMP pair games pitting humans against computers on Monday and Wednesday.

Applications are sought for human pairs or individuals interested in participating in the first-ever ACBL-sanctioned human vs. computer contest. Applicants should have 100-1000 masterpoints. There is no entry fee and masterpoints will be awarded. Prizes are available for human and computer entrants. Entrants will receive $15 in scrip.

The top several programs from the IMP pairs game will enter a computer vs. computer challenge match beginning Thursday. The Championship Challenge Match may be seen on vugraph Friday evening.

Throughout the week there will be a Computer Fair between sessions. The latest in bridge software will be available for player inspection.

Programs to be featured:
Micro Bridge 8 (Japan), owned by Tomio and Yumio Uchida.
Q-Plus Bridge (German), owned by Johannes Leber.

Meadowlark Bridge (U.S.), owned by Rodney Ludwig.

Bridge Baron 7 (U.S.), owned by Tom Throop.
GIB (U.S.), owned by Matt Ginsberg.

Competing in the bidding contest only:
BridgeMate 2.16 (U.S.), owned by Bob Richardson.
Bridge Buff 4.0 (Canada), owned by Doug Bennion.

There will be ongoing contests allowing players to compete with the computers for prizes. Successful contestants will win $10 gift certificates for books or merchandise from Baron Barclay Bridge Supplies or other sponsors.

The Computer Fair will feature two computer contests -- the ACBL Computer Bidding Contest and the ACBL Computer Play Contest. Each event will allow the various software packages to showcase their skills for a variety of prizes. Kibitzers are welcome.

Junior coupons

Junior players (25 or younger) may pick up Junior entry coupons at the ACBL Information Desk, at the I/N selling station or from Charlotte Blaiss, ACBL director of Junior programs.

The coupon, presented with $5 by the Junior named on the coupon, may be used to purchase an entry for one session of any event at the NABC.

Junior Day activities planned

Junior players -- many just returned from Bridge Camp in Italy and anxious to share their adventures with other Juniors -- are invited to a Junior Day reception/meeting at 5:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Enchantment Ballroom.

Juniors will have dinner and a short meeting that will include introduction of the 1997 Homer Shoop Scholarship Award winner and new members of the ACBL Junior Corps.

The Junior Corps was established in 1990 and its members are charged with promoting bridge among other young players.

Coffee with Jane

You're invited to have coffee with Jane Johnson, manager of ACBL's Club-Membership Department, from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday, July 26.

The coffee will be held in the Fiesta Room, 1 and 2, at the Hyatt Regency.

long time. It was a wonderful trip -- I really enjoyed it."

Nevada

In Las Vegas, Johnson was chauffeured around by Kara Jarman, a member of the Unit 373 board and the 1995 Goodwill Member of the Year.

The pair visited all three bridge clubs: the Las Vegas Bridge Center, run by Jeff Neal; the Draw Bridge, Harvey Ackerman; and the Bridge World, Loretta Brown.

Johnson noted that Neal has 8-12 tables of homestyle bridge three mornings a week. While there, Johnson met a 13-year-old boy. "He said he was having a wonderful time playing with his grandmother."

Neal noted that Johnson's meeting with his players and staff was "a mutually satisfying gathering. I think both sides benefited. We had a good time."

Brown agreed and added, "It was so great to meet Jane after all these years. She's always been so helpful -- it's good to know that when anything comes up, she's there."

Arizona

In Tucson, Johnson's escort was Barbara Wilson, a director at the Ace of Clubs. They visited with Bob Hinkle at the Ace of Clubs, Carol Kopec at The Bridge Game and Robert Marvin and Fran Marble at the Adobe Bridge Club.

"Bob Hinkle had put a notice in the unit newsletter that I was coming and invited people to meet me. We had about 20 to 25 people there. It was a nice crowd."

From there, Johnson moved on to the Phoenix-Scottsdale area, where she was met by Chris Wilson, former ACBL president and District 17 director. The two visited the afternoon game at the Scottsdale Bridge Club and met with players, director Gloria Hunt and club manager Jan Bricklin.

"We all enjoyed her visit," said Bricklin. "She has a lot of knowledge -- that's obvious when you talk to her. Several of my staff I sat down and talked with her. She actually listened and took notes."

Next came a visit to James Cox and the Bridge Center in Phoenix.

Colorado

Boarding her fourth flight of the trip (Johnson totaled six flights and more than 4000 miles), Johnson headed out to Colorado Springs where she was met by District 17 Director Bob Wingard.

Johnson was impressed with the club house, owned and operated by Unit 360. "It's a lovely big building. All the games are proprietor-owned and all are run at the club house."

She met with Kay Leiker, manager of the Mountain States Bridge Club, and other club managers for lunch and a question-and-answer session.

Moving on to Denver, Johnson was met by Marvel and Sally Heinsohn and visited Heinsohn's Bridge Club.

His reaction: "We were delighted to have Jane visit us. She made a lot of helpful suggestions and she even helped out and played a hand under duress."

"I think she should come out more often. We'd love to have her back any time."

Johnson also met players at the Denver Metropolitan Bridge Club and talked with them and club manager Michael Thompson.

Johnson was sorry to miss seeing Sharon Wells, longtime manager of the Lakewood Bridge Club.

After that, it was time to head for Memphis and preparations for the Summer NABC -- and to make plans for the next tour: a visit to District 8 in late October to promote the Fall NABC in St. Louis. □

Knox worked as a play therapist for CLN before becoming assistant director recently.

The organization, founded in 1989, provides child care and family support services for 47 children, mostly those whose mothers are at shelters for victims of domestic violence.

The children are cared for so that their mothers can seek jobs or training. "They have to set goals," said Knox. The service is available for nine to 12 months.

The CLN program includes a full-time "play therapist," whose job is to help the children break the cycle of violence and abuse. "The kids," Knox said, "are resilient. They really bounce back. That's the most gratifying part."

Captain Clifford Dickinson of the Salvation Army also finds satisfaction in his job, which has many facets. One of them is work at the Adult Rehabilitation Center, with 36 openings for treatment of men with drug and alcohol problems. It is always full, Dickinson said.

The Salvation Army has served Albuquerque for 105 years and today offers 400 meals a day to needy people, operates two thrift stores and a shelter for homeless women and provides religious services in three locations. Last Christmas, the Salvation Army provided 1300 food baskets for the needy.

Last week, a fire broke out at the rehabilitation center, forcing officials to cut off gas service to the center. Salvation Army workers never missed a beat, serving regular meals despite the setback.

The Salvation Army is open seven days a week, 365 days a year. "We never close," said Dickinson. "There's too much need out there." □

4-4 instead of 7-5

Top-flight bridge players always do their best to seek out their 4-4 fit. Steve Robinson and Peter Boyd succeeded in discovering their 4-4 heart fit on this deal from the Grand National Teams. Trouble is, they had a 7-5 fit in spades.

What's the 2♣ bid? Well, we asked Robinson, and he replied, "I don't know. What do you bid when you have seven-card support for partner?"

Bobby Levin didn't find the singleton spade lead -- never in his wildest dreams did he think Jeff Meckstroth would be void in the suit. But what he did worked just as well -- he underled his ♣K. Meckstroth won and returned a club -- and now Levin led his spade. Meckstroth happily ruffed, and declarer lost still another trick when he misguessed hearts. Down 800 with all those beautiful cards.

By the way, the hand was reported to us by Robinson. He likes to see good hands in the Daily Bulletin -- even if he's the goat.

Life Masters vie for von Zedtwitz Gold Cup

This six-session event with two qualifying, two semifinal and two final rounds is restricted to Life Masters and is contested for the von Zedtwitz Gold Cup.

The cup was donated by Waldemar von Zedtwitz in 1930 and won by von Zedtwitz and P. Hal Sims that same year.

Until Life Masters became numerous, the trophy was contested by master players who had qualified by winning a national championship. It was then a four-session event, and the field was limited to 64 players so that a complete movement could be played.

The trophy was originally presented on the basis that three wins by one player would secure him outright possession of the trophy. This feat was achieved by Howard Schenken in 1934. (Schenken won in 1931 and 1933 with David Burnstine and in 1934 with Richard Frey. He also won in 1941 with Merwyn Maier and in 1943 with John Crawford.)

The cup, put back into competition by the donor, was stolen in 1954 while in the possession of John Hubbell, who held the LM Pairs title. The theft followed a television appearance during which Hubbell had exhibited the trophy and given the address of his bridge club where the cup was normally displayed.

The trophy was never recovered and the present cup is an exact replica.

Women have been occasional winners in the LM Pairs -- Helen Sobel, playing with Charles Goren, won in 1942 and 1958; Ruth Gilbert and Leo Roet, 1949; Helen and Morris Portugal, 1960; Dorothy Truscott and B. Jay Becker, 1964; Hermine Baron and Meyer Schleifer, 1966, and Barbara Rappaport and Al Roth, 1971 and 1972.

Mary Jane Farrell and Marilyn Johnson made history in 1978 when they became the first women's partnership to win the event.

Standard of ethics reaches high level

The history of the Gold Cup, awarded for the six-session Life Master Pairs, would not be complete without a sidelight published 50 years ago in the November-December 1947 Bulletin.

The LM Pairs was then a four-session event called the "World Masters" Pairs Championship and qualification was limited to winners or runners-up in a National Open Pairs contest.

Here is the Bulletin's account:

After the third session of the World Masters Pair event, the score showed Allen Harvey and Frank Weisbach leading with 619. Waldemar von Zedtwitz and William Seamon were second.

At the start of the fourth and last session, after most of the contestants were seated for play, von Zedtwitz was carefully studying the score from the previous day. He discovered that an adjustment in his score had not been carried through correctly, and he should have 600 points instead of 610.

Not only did he demand that the correction be made but he insisted that the leaders be notified at once before proceeding with play.

It is recorded that Harvey and Weisbach won the event by a margin not requiring the 10-point correction. Nevertheless, as they entered the fourth and crucial session, the knowledge that they had a substantial lead of 19 points -- instead of 9 -- may have been an important factor.

At any rate, it stands to von Zedtwitz's credit that he went to great lengths to protect his opponents' interest even though by the same act he damaged his own.

Free computer seminars

If you are using your computer just to run ACBLScore or to do a little word processing, like handouts for lessons, you are missing a lot. It's like owning a sports car and using it only for your weekly trip to the grocery store.

There is a wealth of information and an enormous variety of tools accessible through the computer -- for teachers, club managers and directors.

Come to the FREE Computer Seminar tomorrow from 5-7 p.m. and hear and see what you can do-- Lynn Berg will show you. She has put together a dynamite collection of examples. She will be there with a computer and a printer to demonstrate, explain and answer your questions about how to use your computer to best advantage. Bring your problems and questions for this informal two-hour session to Pavilion 6 at the Hyatt (second floor). Coffee and water will be provided -- bring your own brown bag.

Here is a schedule of entry fees per person per session.

Note the accurate bidding. 6♠ would be defeated after a diamond lead because of the bad spade break.

Von Zedtwitz won the opening diamond lead with the ace, ruffed a diamond in dummy and cashed the ♣K. The ♥A was followed by a heart ruff and von Zedtwitz noted the fall of the ♥J. He ruffed his last diamond with the ♣Q and returned to hand safely with the ♠A. The fall of the ♠8 from East tended to confirm his suspicion about the distribution, so he drew the remaining trumps, throwing hearts from dummy.

Von Zedtwitz led a spade toward dummy at this position:

West put in the queen and Waldy ducked! Now he could ruff West's diamond exit with his last trump and take the proven finesse against the ♠J to win the last two tricks with dummy's ♠K 10.

Note that it is essential to duck West's ♠Q. If declarer wins the queen with dummy's king and returns to the closed hand by ruffing a heart, West will discard the ♠9. Now when South leads a spade, West wins and has a diamond for the setting trick.

Tommy Sanders of Nashville played on a Spingold team with von Zedtwitz in 1963. They finished second. Sanders remembers von Zedtwitz as "a very interesting man -- well read, well informed, well educated. He and Al Morehead wrote children's Bible stories together."

Sanders said von Zedtwitz reminded him of the typical absent-minded professor. "Either he wore the same suit all the time or they all had the same cigarette burns."

This story about von Zedtwitz was given to Sanders and wife Carol by Morehead in 1966 "with the proviso that we never tell the story while von Zedtwitz was alive."

It seems that Morehead and von Zedtwitz were very close friends. Von Zedtwitz never imposed on the friendship except once a year -- usually two days before Christmas -- when he insisted that Morehead accompany/assist him Christmas shopping.

The two would go into stores in Manhattan with von Zedtwitz pointing to one item after another -- "wrap that and deliver it to so and so."

Once done, the two would adjourn to the Oyster Bay at Grand Central Station when they would lunch and celebrate both the season and the completion of their Christmas shopping.

It seems that one year -- about 10 days into January -- Morehead chanced to find himself in the same general area around lunchtime. He decided to lunch at the Oyster Bar.

"I remember you," said his waitress. "Weren't you in here just before Christmas with an elderly gentleman?"

Morehead agreed and the waitress continued, "Let me tell you about something that happened with that man the other day.

"He came in and ordered a very expensive lunch (a $20 lunch in the early Sixties was an expensive lunch) and he ate most of it. Then he just sat and looked out the window and twirled his hair.

"He looked kind of ruffled and he just sat for the longest time.

"The other waitresses and I were concerned that he didn't have the money to pay for his lunch, so we got together and collected enough money to pay his bill.

"We didn't want to embarrass him so we put the money in a bread basket and put the bread basket on his table.

"He didn't notice it for the longest time but finally he did. He reached in his left pocket and had no money. He reached in his right pocket and pulled out a little change.

"I tell you, our hearts just felt good that we had been able to help him.

"Then he reached into an inside coat pocket and pulled out his wallet. He reached into the wallet and pulled out a $100 bill.

"He put the money in the bread basket and passed the basket to the next table."

From the May 1964 Bulletin:

Goodwill candidate ... Deciding that they needed a spot of practice, Edith Kemp and Waldemar von Zedtwitz took a session off from the Vanderbilt and entered the side game.

They got to their stations late and started to play without introducing themselves. On the first deal, when Waldy started his usual hair-twisting performance, one of the opponents leaned toward him kindly, patted his arm and reassured: "Don't be nervous. It's only a game!"

Spingold, Women's KO pre-registration times
