

Canada surprises, takes gold in Salt Lake

By Brent Manley

Looking back, it probably would have been a good idea for Jamie Sale and David Pelletier to stop by the Salt Lake City Hilton for a bit of coaching before they took to the ice in the 19th Winter Olympic Games.

The Canadian figure skaters, who were nearly robbed of the top prize by a suspect judge, might have benefitted from some advice by the first Canadians to earn gold in Salt Lake — the six-man squad which surprised everyone by winning the 4th IOC Grand Prix, the bridge exhibition that concluded just as the Olympics began.

So, what would the Grand Prix champs have told the skaters?

How about Start off like a house afire and hold on?

That's what the Canadians did in the men's final against Poland, thanks to a 44–0 second set. It also didn't hurt that the underdogs showed up in Salt Lake with a never-say-die spirit.

"We won because of character," said an exuberant Joey Silver of Montreal. "We outplayed them because of character. I'm proud of this team."

Silver, an attorney, played with Toronto resident Fred Gitelman, a computer expert in the process of moving to Las Vegas. Their teammates were Calgary residents Nick Gartaganis, a government intelligence analyst, and Gordon Campbell, computer expert and property manager; Edmonton's Peter Jones, communications facilitator for a construction company, and Keith Balcombe, materials manager from Oshawa ON.

The Canadian victory capped a five-day tournament aimed at, if only briefly, turning the attention of Olympics officials to the game of bridge, whose leaders have been knocking on the door of the Games for several years now. The Canadians were joined as gold medal winners by France — Catherine D'Ovidio, Veronique Bessis, Benedicte Cronier and Sylvie Willard. They defeated the USA — Mildred Breed, Amalya Kearse, Jill Meyers, Sharon Osberg, Shawn Quinn, Kerri Sanborn and playing captain Rose Meltzer — in the women's final 173–80.

In the Junior competition, the Americas team — Americans Joel Wooldridge and John Hurd, playing with Argentinians Agustin Madala and Carlos Pellegrini — tied with Europe North, composed of pairs from the Netherlands and Denmark.

The other USA Junior team — Kent Mignocchi, John Kranyak, Joe Grue and Brad Campbell — defeated Europe South (Italy and France) in the bronzemedal playoff.

Zero tolerance four years later

The ACBL Board of Directors -- citing a commitment to "improving acceptable player behavior at all times" -- adopted Zero Tolerance as ACBL policy, effective with the 1998 Spring NABC in Reno.

Unacceptable behavior has decreased. The goal, however, is to eliminate unacceptable behavior as much as possible.

Please report conduct that is unacceptable while keeping in mind that we must be tolerant of other people in general -- and bridge players in particular. • Badgering, rudeness, insinuations, intimidation, profanity, threats or violence.

• Negative comments concerning opponents' or partner's play or bidding.

• Gloating over good results.

• Constant and gratuitous lessons and analyses at the table.

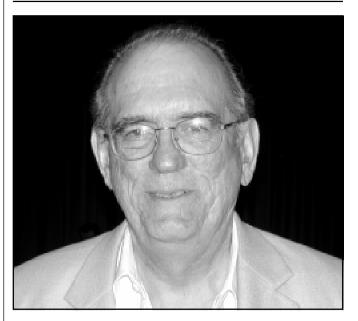

• Loud and disruptive arguing with a director's ruling.

If you experience someone exhibiting discourteous behavior or being other than civil, please call a tournament director immediately. If vou feel that there was a very serious breech of discipline, in addition to the resolution by the tournament director at the table, please discuss the problem directly with the Director-in-Charge of the tournament. Should it become necessary to call a tournament director, you may simply state: "This player is interfering with my enjoyment of the game." The director will then attempt to determine the facts. If he establishes there was unacceptable behavior, an immediate 1/4-board disciplinary penalty (3 IMPs in team games) shall be assigned to all offenders. This may involve any one or all four players at the table, regardless of who initiated the unacceptable behavior. If both members of a partnership are guilty, the penalties are cumulative (1/4 board each= 1/2 board or 3 IMPs each = 6 IMPs).

Locals Gates and Suty lead Open Pairs

Georgiana Gates and Daniel Suty of Houston led by 1.6 matchpoints after two qualifying sessions of the Open Pairs I. Their score of 1205.45 was enough to lead, but they were not far ahead of Virginians Janet and Robert Gookin.

In third place were a pair of Norwegians – Joergen Molberg and Boerre Lund, followed by Paul Soloway of Mill Creek WA and Steve Catlett of Richmond VA.

District 16 boasts colorful history

District 16 began life as a series of units, organized in Dallas and Houston in 1949. A 1951 Bridge Bulletin report on the ACBL Board of Directors meeting lists Jerry Lewis of Dallas as one of 10 ACBL vice presidents.

By 1952 the league had organized into districts. District 9 was made up of these units: Austin, Dallas, El Paso, Houston, San Antonio, Sooner (Oklahoma), Tulsa, Arkansas, Louisiana, Shreveport LA, Mississippi and West Tennessee.

Robert Y. Barrett of Houston was the first district director. He was succeeded by John Gerber, also of Houston, in 1955.

The league reorganized into districts in 1956 and

Also report conduct that is outstanding or refreshing.

Commendable behavior includes (but is not limited to):

• Being a good "host" or "guest" at the table.

• Greeting others in a friendly manner.

• Praising the bidding and/or play of the opponents.

• Having two clearly completed convention cards readily available to the opponents. This is also a regulation.

Unacceptable behavior includes (but is not limited to):

District 16 – units in Dallas, Fort Western, El Paso, Houston, San Antonio, South Texas and Mexico City – was born. George Heath of Dallas was elected to a one-year term beginning Nov. 1, 1956. H e was elected for a threeyear term the following year.

Heath was succeeded by Jerry Lewis, who served as ACBL president in 1963 and as chairman of the Board of Directors in 1962 and 1964.

Lewis was succeeded by "Big Ira" Corn of Dallas, who served as district director from 1965 to 1980 and as ACBL president in 1980. Corn was best known for organizing, financing and captaining the Aces, the world's first professional bridge team. The Aces won the Bermuda Bowl in 1970 and 1971.

Bobby Wolff of Dallas, who grew up in San Antonio and ran a bridge club there, became the next district director. Wolff, an original member of the Aces, served from 1981 to 1992. He was ACBL president in 1987.

Wolff resigned to become president of the World Bridge Federation and Dan Morse of Houston was elected as the district director in 1993. Morse continues to serve in the post. He is an ACBL representative to the World Bridge Federation. Page 2

Montreal World Championship Quiz #2

To heighten awareness of the Montreal World Championships that will take place in August, the organizers are offering a daily problem. There will be a daily drawing among those who turn in the correct answer to the Daily Bulletin office, Continental Room, Westin Oaks third level.

Every day five prizes will be awarded as the result of the drawing. The winners will have their choice of a World Championship Book from either 1995 or 1996 of a 2002 World Championship hat.

The contract is 3NT by South. West leads the $\bigstar 6$. Assuming you were playing this contract for your life, how would you play to ensure nine tricks?

Kantar's answer: For your life, rise with the $\bigstar A$, lead a heart to the king and run the $\blacktriangledown 10$ into East. Assuming this loses you have nine sure tricks, and a 10^{th} if the clubs are 3-3.

If you duck the spade lead or put in the queen, the cards could lie in such a way that you would live to regret your greediness. East could shift to a diamond. True, with the actual lie of the cards you could still come out of this by rising with the ace and finessing a heart into West. Even if the finesse fails, the defenders could take only two more diamonds, but then again the diamonds might be placed differently, and you could lose three or even more diamond tricks!

On the other hand, if you duck the diamond switch around to the queen, the cards might be as you see them. West wins and plays a second spade, which you duck again. This time East wins and returns a second diamond, and you feel as if your head is on a swivel. You now find yourself down to guessing the $\mathbf{\Psi}Q$ for your contract. Ugh.

A leading question

By Barry Rigal

How do you fancy yourself on opening leads? Just look at the bidding and the East cards and plan your opening salvo.

What do you think of the choice of the $\bigstar J$? Well, a trump lead holds declarer to seven tricks for minus 500. A club lead worked out considerably worse. Lew Stansby, winner with his wife JoAnna of the North American Pairs, won the king and ruffed a heart, cashed the $\bigstar A$ and ruffed a diamond. Then he ruffed a heart, cashed the $\bigstar A$ and ruffed a third diamond with East unable to overruff. He ruffed a third heart and a fourth diamond. That was nine tricks in the bag with this ending:

Lew exited with the ♣9 and collected a trump trick in the ending for plus 590 for 22.5 matchpoints out of 25.

Jesse Heim honored with special game

Two of yesterday's games were named in honor of outstanding bridge personalities.

The first was the Jessie Heim Stratified Senior Pairs, which her daughter, Melva Keil, bought to honor her mother. Melva remembered vividly what happened back in the Fifties.

"The doorbell rang and a telegram came with an orchid congratulating Mother on becoming a Life Master," said Melva. "What a terrific honor for one of the first women to achieve the title. .

"She was one of a kind and very independent for a woman of that time. She was a colorful person who had a commanding presence. Never short of an opinion, she played a room just as well as she played bridge, which she played with the perseverance and confidence of a champion athlete.

"She had a brilliant mind and knew the game inside and out. Her gift of gab was as much her trademark as her red hair. Even to this day, people come up to me with any number of stories she shared.

"I am very proud that she was my mother, leaving me with many fond memories and a passion for the game."

Unit 74 purchased the Bracketed Knockout Teams which became the Shawn Quinn Bracketed KOs in honor of the woman who has made such a major mark in bridge at both the North American and the world level. She has won nine North American championships and the 2000 World Women's Olympiad. In addition, she was third in the 2001 Venice Cup and a runner-up in the last three IOC Grand Prix (two in Lausanne, Switzerland and the last in February just before the start of the Winter Olympic Games in Salt Lake City).

Quinn has two other world titles: the World Women's Pairs in 1998 and the Women's Team Olympiad in 1996.

The Fort Concho Unit BAM Teams was purchased by the friends and supporters of the Fort Concho Unit.

it was inaugurated in 1998. Lausanne is headquarters for the International Olympic Committee and home to the Olympics Museum, where the first three tournaments were played.

"I believe we will get a lot of publicity," Damiani said at the end of the Grand Prix. "More important, it will be good publicity."

Bruce Keidan, longtime ACBL member and newspaper editor, served as media liaison for the Grand Prix while it was in progress. The Pittsburgh resident said he had no trouble selling the event as a news story. "It's obvious to me that there's an audience for this," he said. "It was just a great idea to hold it here."

Approximately 125 bridge players from around the world arrived in Salt Lake to find a city in the final stages of preparation for the Winter Olympics. Security was tight but not oppressive, and Salt Lake residents seemed to have put on their most friendly faces for the athletes — there were hundreds already roaming the streets and filling the hotels — and the bridge players, who hope one day to be part of the Olympic experience.

There were accounts of the bridge event in the local newspapers, but they concentrated on the Olympics for the most part. There was, however, plenty of other attention focused on the efforts to make bridge a part of the Games. There was a front-page article in the Wall Street Journal and an interview on National Public Radio. Jill Meyers, one of the competitors, appeared on NBC's Today show (the day after the Grand Prix ended), and the NBC Nightly News also carried news of bridge and the Olympics. New agencies outside the USA were also interested, including La Presse in Montreal, The Daily Telegraph and The Times in London. On radio, the BBC covered the story along with German, Norwegian and Dutch television networks.

During the tournament, several Olympics officials visited the Hilton, where play took place.

One of them, Marc Hodler, has been leading the effort to help bridge gain a foothold in the Olympics. Hodler is a member of the executive board of the IOC. He has worked tirelessly to convince his colleagues that bridge belongs in the Olympics. "They think I'm a little crazy to press for that," he said, "and the people with the power to decide are not very favorable (to the idea)."

Hodler said that if bridge is to join the Olympics, there are significant hurdles to overcome, not the least of which is the IOC rule which specifies that Winter Olympics sports must be played on ice or snow. He said there is another rule that once a city has been awarded the Games, no new events can be added for that year. That rule would seem to exclude bridge for many years into the future, considering that the Games have been awarded as far ahead as the summer of 2008 (Beijing).

Hodler said, however, that a special committee of the IOC may soon consider adding another set of games — for indoor sports. That, he said, might allow the transfer of some sports from the Summer Games to relieve some of the pressure of organizing competition for a growing number of athletes. Hodler said the 2000 Summer Games in Sydney, Australia, drew more than 10,000 athletes, a nearly unmanageable number. "gave me some force and some strength. I so believe in what I am doing."

The competition

The field for the 4th IOC Grand Prix was star-studded, with dozens of current and former world champions on hand. Following the Olympics format, events were separated by gender, and there was a special competition for Juniors. The USA sent the six members of the reigning world championship team.

In men's and women's events, each bracket of 10 teams played a complete round-robin. The top four teams in each of the two events began knockout play in the semifinal stage, followed by the gold-medal and bronze-medal matches.

In the men's bracket, Canada sent three members of the Canadian National Team Championship squad. The fourth member, Judith Gartaganis, was not eligible for the men's heat, so she played with the Canadian women. Added to the squad for the Grand Prix were Gitelman, Silver and Jones.

Europe dominated both brackets as Italy, Norway, Poland and Canada made up the men's semifinals. In the women's bracket, France — runners-up in last fall's Venice Cup — topped the round-robin, followed by Germany, USA and the Netherlands.

The men's USA entry — Bob Hamman, Ron Smith, David Berkowitz, Larry Cohen, Nick Nickell and Richard Freeman — finished a disappointing eighth out of 10 teams in the round-robin. In the women's bracket, the Canadians — Gartaganis, Francine Cimon, Dianna Gordon, Beverly Kraft, Gloria Silverman and Katie Thorpe — also finished eighth in the round-robin.

The semifinal matchups in the men's draw were Italy versus Canada and Norway against Poland. In the women's event, USA faced Germany while France battled the Netherlands.

In the men's event, Italy started off against Canada with a carryover of 6 IMPs and immediately increased their lead with a 43–12 first set. Canada lost another 5 IMPs in the second set before cutting 24 IMPs off the deficit with a good third segment. With a quarter to play — 12 deals — Canada was behind by 18 IMPs. The Canadians won the final set 34–5, but they didn't take the lead until the 10th board of the 12-deal set.

Trailing by 1 IMP with three boards to go, Gitelman and Silver were the heroes on two decisive deals that sealed Italy's fate. Ironically, it wasn't until the match was over that Gitelman realized he wasn't actually the goat. The Canadians were playing against Giorgio Duboin and Guido Ferraro.

Gitelman was correct, and plus 1430 put the Canadians ahead by 12 with two deals to go. As it happened, the set of deals was a wild one, and the action was not over.

On the next deal, Lauria and Versace bid to a club slam, so the match was in the balance. Would Gitelman and Silver be up to the challenge?

Gitelman's 4Φ bid may look strange, but there was a method to his, you might say, imaginative call. Gitelman can explain: "I knew that if I cuebid 4Ψ , my partner would not be able to cuebid spades, so I psyched the diamond cuebid."

Ferraro led the A and Fred put down the dummy, noting that his partner did not thank him for the 13 cards lying on the table in front of him. Very quickly, Silver claimed, and Gitelman feared the worst --- that Silver was claiming for down one.

"I thought we might have won it on the previous board," Gitelman said, "but then I thought we had lost it on that board."

In fact, it wasn't until the match was over and the team was making comparisons that Gitelman became aware that Silver had actually claimed 12 tricks, not 11.

The final board was flat --- Italy gained 1 IMP --and Canada had pulled a huge upset, knocking off the defending Olympiad champions, who had been having their way with the Grand Prix field.

In the final against the formidable team from Poland, Canada was again the underdog. The four Polish players were on the team which narrowly lost to Italy in the 2000 Olympiad in the Netherlands --- and they were playing well, having defeated a strong Norwegian team 112–89 to reach the final.

Ignoring the pundits, Canada raced to an early lead, helped by the huge second quarter. This deal was a missed opportunity for Poland. Gitelman and Silver opposed Cezary Balicki and Adam Zmudzinski.

By contrast, about 2500 athletes showed up for the Salt Lake Games.

No matter what, Hodler said, he is not giving up. "We have made progress," he said. "The World Bridge Federation has been recognized (by the IOC) as a sports federation. That's a big step."

Damiani also remains committed, and he believes his pursuit of the goal has resulted in many converts to his way of thinking — that bridge should be part of the Olympics. The Grand Prix in Salt Lake, he said,

In the closed room, Lorenzo Lauria and Alfredo Versace stopped in game, so Canada had a chance for a major swing, and Giltelman was up to the task. In the highly competitive auction, Gitelman had confidence in his partner. "I knew he wouldn't bid 5♠ unless he thought he could make it," Gitelman said. "If he thought he could make 5♠, I thought he could make six."

despite bad breaks, had plays.

Gitelman led the $\bigstar J$, and Silver played the 10, suit preference for diamonds, when Gitelman obliged. Zmudzinski put in dummy's $\blacklozenge Q$ and Silver won the king. He then cashed the $\bigstar A$ and continued with the $\bigstar Q$, forcing dummy to ruff. Zmudzinski cashed the $\blacktriangledown A$, getting the bad news in trumps, and continued with the $\blacktriangledown J$. Looking at all the cards, one can see that the winning line is to play a diamond to the 9, cash the hearts, pitching the $\blacklozenge A$ and clubs, then the $\blacklozenge J$. East will be squeezed in the black suits on the play of the $\blacklozenge J$. Declarer would hold the $\bigstar 7$ and $\oiint 4$ in his hand, while dummy would be down to the $\bigstar A$ Q. East would be holding the $\bigstar K$ and the $\clubsuit K$ 7 with no good discard.

Zmudzinski, however, apparently decided early in the play that Gitelman was more likely to hold the \clubsuit K, so after picking up trumps he played a club to dummy's queen. Silver won the king and had a spade to cash for two down and 3 IMPs to Canada instead of 12 to Poland.

Gitelman played expertly on this deal to help his team to a major swing.

This must have been scary for Michal Kwiecien and Pszczola — scoring only five tricks against the doubled heart partial by Gartaganis for plus 100. At the other table, Gitelman and Silver found their way to a vulnerable game. All Gitelman had to do was make it.

With his good spots and the fall of East's $\Psi 10$, Peter Jones had no trouble taking 12 tricks for plus 680. Would Poland be able to engineer a slam swing of its own? It turned out that the answer was yes, but not in the way they wanted.

Zmudzinski's 1♣ opener was Polish, meaning it could be a minimum balanced hand or any of a wide variety of strong, unbalanced hands. It appeared that, after the 3♠ cuebid, South was to bid 3NT with a minimum and a spade stopper. Zmudzinski's 4♥ bid, therefore, showed a strong hand.

The way the auction developed might have worked out all right for Poland were it not for the terrible break in clubs. Still, it seems that Gitelman's 2♠ bid completely derailed North-South in the auction.

Gitelman started with a low diamond to the jack and queen. Zmudzinski cashed the \clubsuit A and followed with the jack, ducked by Silver. Now Zmudzinski was forced to use a diamond entry to dummy to drive out the \clubsuit K. Silver won the third round of clubs and played the \P 10. Zmudzinski took the \P A and, preparatory to squeezing West in the majors, cashed the \clubsuit A, before going to dummy again with a diamond. Had that suit been 3-3, Gitelman would indeed have been squeezed in the majors, but Zmudzinski didn't have enough tricks. In the end, because he had failed to unblock the \P J earlier, Zmudzinski could not endplay Gitelman for down one by exiting with dummy's \clubsuit Q. He had to settle for minus 200 and a 13-IMP loss.

The final deal of the set was another big swing for Canada.

Pszczola took 11 tricks in the normal-looking notrump contract for plus 460. The auction was much different at the other table.

Looking at all four hands, it is obvious that no slam can be made legitimately. Nevertheless, at four of the eight tables in play at the tournament, slam was bid – and made. Not one of the four pairs took the two tricks to which they were entitled. In the women's match between France and USA, the contract was doubled by North-South (the American pair).

With one board to go Poland had not scored an IMP in the set. Balicki's aggressive $4 \clubsuit$ opener put Poland in position to at least break the shutout. $5 \bigstar$ doubled would have gone for minus 500, but it's hard to blame Gitelman for carrying on to slam. His $\bigstar K$ was worthless, but the rest of his hand was potentially useful.

Zmudzinski started with the $\bigstar5$ (low from doubletons), and Balicki took the king with the ace. It was up to him then to figure out how to defeat the slam if indeed it could be beaten. Perhaps Balicki did not consider that the defense had a chance, for he took only a moment to return the \$8. Silver claimed at that point – his losing club was going away on one of dummy's hearts, the king if South didn't cover the jack, the 10 if he did. That was plus 10 IMPs for Canada and a fitting end to a strong set for the underdog Canadian team.

After being shut out in the second quarter, Poland stormed back to win the third set 39–9. With one board to go in the final set, a relatively quiet affair, Canada was in position to win the gold medal without scoring an IMP in the quarter. Down 16–0, they were still in the lead by 1.5 IMPs — and Campbell and Balcombe had bid and made 4♠ in the other room. Barring a complete meltdown by Gitelman and Silver — which wasn't going to happen — Canada had won. In fact, Kwiecen as South, also playing in 4♠, backward finessed in trumps, apparently trying to generate a swing for his side. He thus went down and ended up losing 10 IMPs. Canada had the gold medal with a 76–64.5 victory.

In his remarks at the medal ceremony, ACBL President George Retek, clearly pleased with the showing of his countrymen, remarked: "The slogan of these Olympic Games is 'Light the Fire Within.' Our bridge players have shown with their skill and determination at the Grand Prix that this Olympic motto already exists in our sport."
