52nd Spring North American Bridge Championships

Editors: Brent Manley and Dave Smith

Experienced workers key to NABC success

"It was a lot easier this time," said NABC Co-chair Toni Snow. She was referring to 2002, the last time the North American Bridge Championships were held in Houston. Snow was joined by her husband, Eric Snow, and Betty Starzec as co-chairs.

"The workers had been through it before and knew what to expect this time," said Eric. "They were terrific. We appreciate and want to thank all of them."

"The committee chairs and the volunteers worked like a well-oiled machine," added Starzec. "We had an amazing crew of volunteers, and all of them did their job. It was one great team."

European Championships open to all comers in 2009

A fourth edition of the European Open Bridge Championships is scheduled for Sanremo, Italy, June 12-27 next year.
Sanremo is a resort community on the Italian Riviera not far from Monaco.

The European championships were first opened to all players in 2003, in Menton,

France, not far from the Sanremo venue. Two other tournaments – in Tenerife, Canary Islands, and Antalya, Turkey – attracted many stars from around the world.

The tournament will be run on a typical European schedule: Most events are played in a longer, single session starting about 10:30 a.m., leaving evenings free for dining and other activities. All events are transnational and there are no restrictions on the number of entries per national bridge organization.

The scheduled events are Mixed Teams; Mixed Pairs: Open, Women's and Senior Teams, and Open, Women's and Senior Pairs, with cash prizes for overall finishers. Players entering four events receive a 25% discount on the entry fees.

The hotels, including one five-star and two four-star properties, will offer a special bridge rate for tournament participants.

The Palafiore Convention Center, a converted flower market, is a modern facility that is fully air conditioned, as are the host hotels.

Sanremo is a half hour's drive from Monaco, where one of the world's most famous casinos is located. Also within easy driving distance is Genova (Genoa), and Milano is relatively close.

For more information, including registration, you can e-mail ebl@federbridge.it.

Bob's favorite contract By Barry Rigal

Bob Hamman always says that when you have to make a decision in bidding, if 3NT is in the picture – bid it.

On this deal from the Vanderbilt Knockout Teams, Hamman found himself in a decidedly dicey contract of 3NT. You don't get a reputation like Hamman has, however, by giving up.

West led a heart to the queen, ducked by Hamman. He inserted the jack on the heart continuation, losing to West's king. Another heart cleared the suit as East discarded a club.

Things looked bleak with the clubs blocked, but Hamman cashed the $\int A$. No luck. Soldiering on, Hamman cashed the $\int A$ and $\int Q$, then played a spade to dummy's 10. East won the $\int K$ and started thinking — good news! Eventually, East returned a low spade to the jack and queen. Hamman cashed the $\int K$ as East pitched a spade. Now the $\int J$ was covered all around as West pitched a club.

Hamman then played a spade to East, who was forced to lead a diamond from the 9-7 into Hamman's 10-8.

This was the full deal:

East had more than once chance to set the contract, but his easiest was to win the ♠K and play the ♠Q. Declarer is now blocked off from his own hand. Had he pitched a spade instead of a club at trick three, the defenders would still have prevailed.

Know thy system By Jeff Miller

Here is a hand from the top flight of a bracketed knockout. After three passes, you must decide what to bid with the following:

♦AKQ108764 ♥AKQ ♦6 ♣5.

When aces are the question, Blackwood is the answer. You could open 24, set spades, and then bid Blackwood, but the opponents might well get more active on the second round of bidding (they would have). You open all big balanced hands with 24 and use Kokish, so you elect to open 4NT. In fact, the international experts at the other table also opened 4NT. We're not going to use any names in this one. Just use the information for your regular partnerships.

At one table, where there was no agreement, the responder thought that this was a case for 1430 responses, while the opening bidder did not. Responder bid 54, opener signed off at 54, and responder let it play – plus 480.

At the other table, the regular partnership played the popular method of showing specific aces. This normally means 5 - 0, 5 - 0, 5 - 0, etc., and here the paths diverged. Some play that 5NT shows two aces and 6 - 0, while others play that 5NT is the - 0. After some thought, the responder bid 5NT and the opener jumped to 7 - 0. The players properly explained the issue before the opening lead. The - 0 A was cashed for minus 50.

So that is the story of how two expert partnerships failed to bid a laydown slam by messing up Blackwood. Even the simplest conventions require explicit agreements.

You might not see this hand for a while, but variations come up fairly often. You and your partner should agree on when 4NT is not Key Card Blackwood. An example is 1♠ −4NT. This should be straight Blackwood because you could easily set trump before using RKC.

JUST FOR NEW PLAYERS

Dear New Players:

By Marti Ronemus

So your suitcases are all packed, ready for your departure, but you've got to squeeze in one more game before you leave. I once missed a plane that way, so be careful about time! (It was a great game, and worth the $75 rebooking fee!)

I got a cheerful, triumphant e-mail last night that I'm going to share. It will reflect back on my theme of "Don't bite your partner's head off" from earlier this week. Remember the story of the Great Dane and the gerbil? (If you missed it, go to www.acbl.org and search through the

"Dear Marti. I think I've finally grasped the flexibility of the opening 2. bid. I've been struggling with it, so I felt pretty good. In last night's side game, I picked up this hand...what a freak!

AAKQJ98742 ♥— ♦A ♣876

I never had a hand with a nine-card suit before and wasn't sure what to do. Then I remember my teacher saying that the 2. opener isn't just for high point hands, but for when you've got 8-1/2 tricks in your hand. Aha! I count actually 10 tricks, so I opened 2. Cindy and I play step responses, so her 3. bid showed 13-15 points. Well, I wasn't sure what to do then, so I asked for aces, and she showed one. I was stuck. I had to figure – and pray – that since she had no points in spades, she had some in clubs. So I held my breath and bid 6.

"My RHO then doubled. He did, after all, have the missing ace and all the points. It was a lock for the slam and we got the only top board on the hand! Others were in the slam, but no one else was doubled.

"My gosh, you should have heard the wife berating her poor husband for the double! She started on him the minute the dummy came down and she was still carrying on two tables away! I shouldn't laugh, but it was funny.

"So, Cindy and I would like to know how the experts would handle this hand? There was a lot of discussion in the bar last night, especially from the people who opened 4. Signed, Happy in Houston."

Dear Happy,

I rarely offer advice to the guy who gets the top on the board! Your story, after all the sad, pathetic e-mails I've gotten this week, gives me hope. I'm certainly not going to give you advice, but I am going to offer a few thoughts.

You are so right about the flexibility of the bid. 2. is the perfect opening when you can see 8-1/2 tricks in hand, OR (and this is perfectly legitimate!) you would die if your partner passed. Now, don't misuse that as an excuse for bad bids! You aren't going to see another nine-card suit this decade (I've never had one!), but you are going to see a lot of hands that aren't chock-full of points, but are real trick-takers. Go for it!

Now, about the step response bids. Personally, I don't like them. They take up too much room, and often have the big hand unnecessarily on the table rather than hidden. Usually, step responses are used by less experienced players. It sounds as though you've got a good partnership going, so sit down with your partner and study the 2♦ waiting scenarios. Once you understand them, you'll see that you're not going to miss your slams, and will actually find the right spot easier and faster...or be able to bail out earlier!

The other thing I want you and Cindy to study, and that's using cuebids rather than Blackwood/Gerber when you've got a void and are searching for slam. It isn't as easy as B/G, but you asked what the Big Dogs would do, and they would use cuebids.

The important thing, Happy, is you got to the right contract. Sometimes it doesn't matter if you got there on the wings of an angel, just that you get there!

The other important thing is that you and Cindy have a partnership where you want to learn together, and never place the blame for a bad board on each other. The Bickersons you played against are going to have a terrible game, both in percentage and the "emotional content" we talked about earlier in the week.

You are more of a winner than you even know! You have learned the important Life Lesson of careful treatment of partners. Go forth and conquer.

Well, y'all, I'm going to miss these little daily chats, but please don't forget me when you get home. I want to hear from you, and no question is too dumb, no story is too weird. By now you know I have an answer for everything! E-mail me at mronemus@comcast.net. You'll see yourself in print eventually.

Play commentary: As declarer, looking only at spades (a big mistake), the proper spade play is to win the first trick with the king and later lead low to the 10 to garner three spade tricks. But at what price? By going for three spade tricks, you have put the club suit to rest! If East wins the second club, taking dummy's last club with the ace, you cannot get back to your hand to cash your three winning clubs. You wind up with one club trick instead of four! Best is to win the ♠A and lead the ♣K. Even if East expertly wins the second club, you still have the ♠K to get back to your precious clubs. Playing properly, you score four clubs, two spades and the ♦A K for 8 tricks. If you win the AK at trick one and East wins the second club, you have only six tricks!

Defensive commentary: When declarer tries to set up a suit in the closed hand (clubs), and dummy has two cards in that suit, a strong defender holding the ace or king, does best to win the second round. This may make it difficult for declarer to return to the closed hand to take winning tricks.

Friday the Rabbi used judgment

By Mark Horton

In 1965 Harry Kemelman won an Edgar Award for Best First Novel, Friday the Rabbi Slept Late, featuring the Rabbi David Small, which became a huge bestseller. If the Rabbi Small had been a bridge player, the title might have been different.

Rabbi Leonard Helman, a mere 82 years young, suffers from Parkinson's disease, but still engages his mind at the bridge table, trying to solve problems that can be just as taxing as your average murder mystery.

Here are a few interesting deals from the final of the Lebhar IMP Pairs on most of which some judgment was required:

West's overcall facing a passed partner reminds me of a line from Horace's Odes: "Oak and triple bronze encompassed the breast of him who first entrusted his frail craft to the wild sea." With such a defenseless hand I might have done better to bid a direct four spades, which at least emphasizes the powerful trump support.

As an aside, this deal is much easier for North-South if the opening bid is one club. If East-West bid in analogous style the auction might go:

 $1 \clubsuit - (2 \blacktriangledown) - 2 \spadesuit - (3 \blacktriangledown)$; $4 \spadesuit - (5 \blacktriangledown)$, and now, knowing of the secondary fit in clubs, it is easier for North to go on to five spades.

Everyone had some sort of decision to make on this deal.

Should West open two spades? Should North open?

If North does open, what should East bid? After East overcalls one heart, what should South do?

After East overcalls one heart, what should West do if South passes or bids 1NT?

Here are my suggestions:

Unless I had some strict rules about suit quality, I would open two spades with the West hand. (Better still I would open with a Multicoloured Two Diamonds, but that is not allowed in any type of pairs game.)

The absence of majors from the North hand is a major concern, even when one player has passed. That argues in favor of bidding on the North hand (a few players might be able to open 2NT to show the minors).

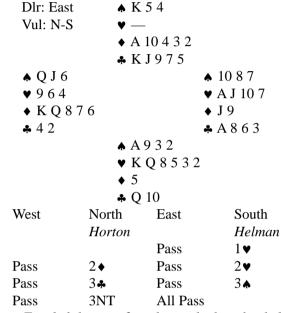

Once North opens, East is awkwardly placed. You have to choose between one heart and 1NT – I would prefer the latter, which at least gets across the high-card values.

After East bids one heart, South should bid 1NT. Passing suggests that you are willing to defend one heart doubled if partner reopens – and this is not the right sort of hand for that.

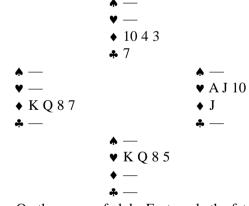

Finally, if South passes, West should bid one spade, and might consider bidding two spades over 1NT.

Failing to reach the spade game cost East-West 8.58 IMPs.

I'll sign off with an illustration of how easy it is to make a mistake at this demanding game:

East led the ten of spades, and when that held he continued the suit. Declarer won in hand and attacked clubs, playing one to dummy's queen and then overtaking the ten with the jack. East won and played a third spade, so declarer won in dummy, cashed the long spade and played a diamond to the ace. Declarer cashed his clubs and this was the four-card ending:

On the seven of clubs East made the fatal mistake of retaining the jack of diamonds. Now when declarer exited with a diamond, one defender or the other had to surrender the ninth trick.

Vanderbilt

Katz took a 43-33 lead against Diamond after the first quarter, but Diamond won the second set 30-19 to lead by 1 IMP at the break. Katz was very stingy with the IMPs from then on, and only a 14-IMP slam swing to Diamond near the end of the third quarter kept the match within reach. On the other 31 boards of the second half, Diamond scored only 9 IMPs.

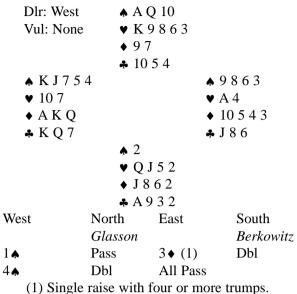

The win gives Katz, Jacobs and Levin three Vanderbilt victories. Levin won his first in 1980 and his second 20 years ago. Katz and Jacobs won in 1999 and 2004. The win was the first for the Egyptians and Weinstein.

They were second in the Vanderbilt: Brad Moss, Brian Platnick, Geoff Hampson, Eric Greco, John Diamond and Fred Gitelman.

Aggression pays off

Lisa Berkowitz and Joann Glasson won the Whitehead Women's Pairs going away. These two deals show how aggressive bidding pays off at matchpoints. The following deals were played in the first final session.

Glasson and Berkowitz play that a double of a 3♦ Bergen raise is for takeout, so Berkowitz showed her pattern, making it easier for Glasson to double the final contract. On the lead of the ♥3, declarer played the ace. Berkowitz followed with the ♥2, suit preference for clubs. The defense came to a heart, a club and three trump tricks for plus 300 and all the matchpoints.

On the next deal, Glasson judged well to jam the auction rather than bidding a major.

Glasson and Berkowitz play Precision, so Glasson knew her partner's hand was limited. Looking at her own hand, Glasson guessed correctly that the opponents had a game (3NT by East-West is trivial), so she jammed the auction with a weak raise in diamonds. It's tough for West in the given auction to bid 3NT on a doubleton \bullet Q, so she bid 4. Minus 130 was good for 24 out of 25 matchpoints for the winners.

Thank you

Thank you to Baron Barclay Bridge Supply for sponsoring the Win a Bridge Library contest in the IntermediateNewcomer area

Thank you to Kronberg's Flags and Flagpoles for supplying and delivering the Texas State flag displayed on the 2nd floor.

Winners of bridge libraries announced

Five players won bridge libraries – bridge books that were donated by the sponsor Baron Barclay Bridge Supply. The contest winners were determined by a random drawing in the Intermediate-Newcomer area. The winners are: Jean Moritz of Houston, Dianne Wolchik of Georgetown TX, Dianne Watkins of Houston, Kay Kennedy of Houston and Renee Wetherhold of Emmaus PA.

Desperate measures

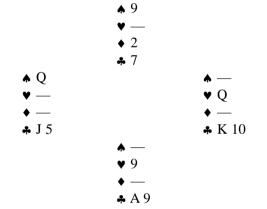

Californians Michael Bodell of Santa Clara and Martha Hawley of Carmel Valley found themselves trailing by 20 IMPs in their knockout match when the following deal came along. Aggressive bidding and skillful play earned a 13-IMP swing in a match they eventually won by 1 IMP.

Bodell's decision to upgrade his 14-point hand to a 15-17 1NT paid off when Hawley took control by bidding Gerber, first checking for aces then kings before signing off in 6NT. All Bodell had to do was make it.

West started with the AQ, ducked all around. The A10 went to the king and ace, and Bodell entered dummy with a diamond to take the club finesse. So far, so good, but there was still a lot of work to do.

Bodell played accurately, however, running his diamonds to reach this ending:

When Bodell played the ◆2, East had to discard a club to keep his heart guard. Bodell pitched the ♥ 9, and now it was West's turn to squirm. A spade pitch would make North's 9 good, so West had to let go of a club. Now the ♣A 9 were good for two tricks. Well done!

The co-chairs felt that the hospitality added to the success of the tournament. "We tried to go with Texas-sized give-aways," said Toni. "We felt hospitality was important. We're proud of Houston and wanted players to have a good time."

"We have a regional each February," said Eric, "It's a wonderful tournament and we want people to come back."

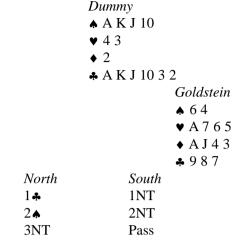

The co-chairs also thanked the Hotel and the ACBL staff. "Jeff and Wendy were wonderful," said Starzec, referring to the ACBL meeting planners. "They were incredibly responsive to our needs. Also, the hotel was amazing to deal with. We got along great with them."

There is great expense to host an NABC. How did Houston raise the money?

"We added a $1 surcharge to events at our Unit 174 tournaments," said Toni. "Then, District 16 collects $1 per person for each Saturday event

Poster child for upside-down signals

Steve Goldstein, of Anaheim CA, found himself with an interesting problem on this deal from a Bracketed Knockout Team Game.

Goldstein's partner, Gary Brown of San Francisco, led the ♥2. Goldstein won the ♥A and paused to consider how to proceed. He could see that it was important to cash out as declarer surely had nine tricks when he gained the lead.

To give himself an extra chance he cashed the $\triangle A$. If partner discouraged, he could revert to hearts. Playing upside-down attitude, partner played the $\triangle 5$, so Goldstein continued with the "Marsha Bernstein was able to help us get money," said Starzec. "She knows how to find people and get them to say 'yes.'"

The fund-raising committee sold people on the idea of memorials and appreciation days. "We sent a ton of letters to the units in our district," said Toni. "Folks bought into the idea."

The tournament publicity was also successful.

"Jane Armstrong was able to get us publicity on television, newspapers and the Internet," said Toni.

"I don't think any NABC has ever done a better job getting us into the media," said Starzec.

There were many hours of volunteer work done – it takes that to make an NABC work. Why do they do it?

"Pride in Houston," said Toni, in answer to the question. "Our Unit wants to show that it is a first-class place to play bridge. We want to promote Houston and bridge in Houston." Page 6 Daily Bulletin

- (1) Strong, artificial.
- (2) Weak, artificial.
- (3) Not alerted agreement is diamonds or black suits.

Facts: The contract was 4♥ played by North down two for a score of North-South minus 100. East led the $\blacktriangle 3$.

The director was called at the conclusion of the play. 2 was, by agreement, either diamonds or the black suits. North said that he would not have bid 3♥ if he had been given the correct explanation.

Director's Ruling: Five players were polled and asked whether they would bid 3♥ over 2♠ given both explanations. One player said the correct information made 3♥ less attractive; two said the difference in explanation didn't matter and two players said the correct explanation made it more attractive to bid 3♥. Based upon the polling responses, the director concluded that the misinformation had no affect on the table result, and the table result of 4♥ by North, down two, North-South minus 100 was allowed to stand.

The Appeal: North–South appealed the director's decision. All four players attended the hearing.

North said he would have passed if he had the correct information. He upgraded his hand because of his doubleton in West's presumed suit.

East explained that he didn't bid 3♠ because he didn't want to push the opponents into $4 \heartsuit$. He could count only three defensive tricks opposite a typical West hand including, say, six spades to the A-K.

The Decision: The committee's judgment matched that of those polled. The correct information would not have made pass more attractive. Thus East-West gained no advantage from their irregularity per Law 21B3. Accordingly the committee allowed the table result of $4 \checkmark$ by North, down two, North-South minus 100 to stand.

The committee considered a procedural penalty (PP) against East-West, who ought to know their methods on a straightforward firstround auction. The committee consulted with the director who explained that such penalties are usually assessed only for repeated violations. Thus, the committee did not assess a PP.

The appeal was judged to have merit.

(1) Break in tempo (BIT).

Facts: The contract was 5♣ doubled down one for a score of North-South minus 200. North was the declarer and East led the ♥K.

The director was called at the conclusion of the deal. East-West thought South's BIT at his second turn to call was eight to 10 seconds. North-South thought it was brief.

Director's ruling: The director judged that the BIT demonstrably suggested bidding and that pass was a logical alternative. The director adjusted the score to 4♠ doubled by North, therefore, down three, for a score of North-South minus 800.

The appeal: North–South appealed the director's decision. East was the only player who did not attend the hearing.

The double of $4 \checkmark$ was described as takeout. Partnership agreement is double is takeout through 4. South felt his hand was too good to pass.

South knew that 4NT over 4♠ would have been Key Card Blackwood. North-South contended that West should have known that North-South would remove the double. South said he intended to redouble for rescue, not bid 4NT. North thought the double based on spades was a poor call.

West said he thought 4♥ was making; therefore, he needed to double to protect his side's equity.

The committee discovered that 5♣ went down when declarer tried to ruff a spade before playing a round of trumps.

The decision: The sequence of reasoning reserved for the committee was to examine the slow pass of $4 \spadesuit$. Did it convey information? The answer was yes. South was either too good or too bad to pass. After the double, North possessed unauthorized information that South was unsuitable for 4. While a minority of the committee agreed with North's decision to remove to 5*, there was unanimity that passing as North was a logical alternative.

Because the committee judged that North had taken advantage of the UI, an assigned adjusted score had to be awarded. The question was what South would have done had 4♠ doubled been passed back to him. The committee was required to use Law 12C1(e) to give the offenders the most unfavorable score that was at all probable had the irregularity not occurred. The non-offenders would get the most favorable score that was likely.

The committee had been presented with the South hand as a blind preview. Two out of five members would have sat for 4 doubled and three would have pulled to 4NT.

Using the ACBL Laws Commission's criteria that an action would be deemed likely if more than one-third of a player's peers would take it, the committee determined that the contract should be $4 \spadesuit$ doubled for both sides. The play in $4 \spadesuit$ doubled would see declarer score four trump tricks and three aces. Therefore, the committee ruled as the director had, assigning a score of 4 doubled by North, down three, and a score of North-South minus 800 and East-West plus 800.

The appeal was determined to have merit.

Electronic devices banned in national events

The ACBL Board of Directors approved a comprehensive ban on electronic devices for all national-level events, but not to regional or IntermediateNewcomer contests:

Electronic devices, excluding healthrelated equipment, capable of sending or receiving communication, including but not limited to, headphones, earphones, cellular phones and minicomputers: (1) shall not be allowed in the playing areas, adjacent hallways, restrooms or accessible break areas; and (2) shall not be used during a session.

These restrictions shall apply to all pairs, team members, captains, coaches, recorders and kibitzers and shall apply throughout any actual playing session or segment.

A violation of this policy shall result in a disciplinary penalty of one full board (or 12 IMPs at that form of scoring) for the first offense. A second offense shall result in disqualification from the event for the pair/team.

Kibitzers violating this policy shall be removed from the playing area for the remainder of the session.

Participants will be reminded not to approach the playing area with a personal electronic device in their possession, even if the device is turned off.

Down-to-earth bridge

Astronaut Greg Johnson scored a big hit with the ACBL earlier in the tournament by presenting an ace of spades that had he taken into orbit last year on the Shuttle Endeavor.

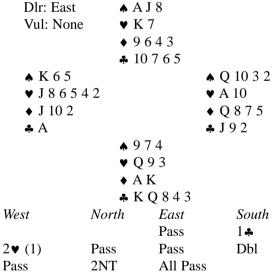

With feet planted firmly on Houston soil at the NABC, Johnson showed that he knows his way around the bridge table as well. Johnson was North.

He didn't want to finesse in diamonds unless he had to, so he played the *K to West's ace, ruffed the spade return in dummy, cashed the *Q and played a heart to the 9. East won and could have offered a useless ruff-sluff with a spade out, but he switched to a diamond, solving that problem. Johnson simply cashed winners from that point. He lost a club and two hearts for plus 420 and six of eight matchpoints.

Johnson got all the matchpoints on this deal.

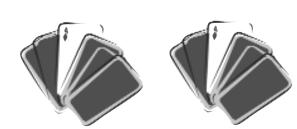

(1) Ostensibly weak.

West's jump overcall with a moth-eaten suit and a trick and a half on defense outside the suit would not be the choice of many experienced players. Johnson probably should have simply raised clubs at his first or second turn, but it's easier looking at all four hands than in real life partner might have opened on three low clubs (not likely, of course, but bridge players are trained to fear the worst).

Also dubious was South's balancing double with length in hearts.

At any rate, East started with the ♥A and a heart to Johnson's king. He played a club to the king and West's ace, won the heart continuation in dummy, cleared clubs and claimed eight tricks for plus 120 and a cold top.

NABC Insider

As another NABC winds down, the Insider would like to thank all of you who came to Houston. The local committee showered us with Texas hospitality. The hotel was outstanding in their cooperation. The ACBL staff did their usual excellent job getting the games going on time, keeping them moving, making rulings when needed, reporting results and getting it all written up in the Daily Bulletin. Heartfelt appreciation goes to the Services Crew for their incredible contributions setting up, running and tearing down the whole thing. The HQ staff was supportive both while some of them were here and from a distance as the tournament progressed. The Insider is proud to work with such hard-working, dedicated people. Thanks to all of them. When it comes to the Insider's musings, he sends special thanks to the Bulletin Boys for their continued tolerance, to Boss Baum for looking the other way and to all of you for the inspirations. The contributions of the S.C. hardly needs mentioning, so we won't. Really, really special thanks to Ask Me Girl – remember to send notes to Memphis in support of the Insider's campaign to have her named ACBL's customer service employee of the year.

We hope all of you will join Ask Me Girl and the Insider at one or both of the other NABCs this year. As written over the last couple of days, they both promise great things. It is obvious they are being held in great cities. The local committees, the host hotels and the ACBL family will all do their parts, be sure to come and do yours. Watch the ACBL web site for Insider tips on all future NABCs - and maybe some news about a WBF tournament in 2010. (Also, watch the web site itself for some changes throughout the year. We've got some ideas that will improve the site, make it easier to navigate, provide more and fresher information and, all in all, make the site better for both members and future members. The Insider only hopes the web-powers-that-be don't try to evict his notes and tips.)

Our biggest thanks, of course, go to you, our members, our players and our friends. It was a pleasure to see all of you. Thanks for coming. Congratulations to the winners, the new Life Masters and the other achievers of new ranks. We hope you all enjoyed the Houston NABC as much as we did. See you in Washington in July.

The road to victory

Nikolay Demirev and Nicolas L'Ecuyer had never played as partners before signing up for the Vanderbilt Knockout Teams. They didn't last long in the big event, but the practice they got helped them to victory in the Lebhar IMP Pairs.

One of the gadgets they agreed to play is an opening bid of 2Ψ showing both majors in a weak hand.

This deal from the first final session shows the system in action, although the North hand hardly qualifies as weak.

South had an easy pass and the winners collected plus 800.

The next one was from the second final session.

West was able to open $2 \checkmark$ and $4 \checkmark$ was easily reached for a good score, as many other East-West pairs missed game.

On this deal from the first final session, the winners showed that they are adept defenders.

Against 2♠ by East, L'Ecuyer led the ♠Q. Declarer won the ace in dummy and played the ♠Q, covered by the king and ace. A low spade from hand went to dummy's 8. Declarer then played a club to his ace and a low club. L'Ecuyer ducked smoothly and declarer misguessed, putting in the 10. Demirev, in with the ♣J, found the "surrounding" play of the ♥10, killing the contract for a good score.

Finally, here's L'Ecuyer as declarer.

West led a spade, taken by East, who switched to a diamond. L'Ecuyer won the ◆K, cashed a club to discard a heart, ruffed a club, then played the ♥J to West's ace (East did not cover). West did not have a diamond to return, so L'Ecuyer could ruff two spades in hand and discard one on the ♥K. That was 11 tricks for plus 550 and a big score.

Life Master News

NABC Diary

Dream come true (sort of)

It has always been Jeff Miller's dream to sit down in the Vanderbilt or Spingold as the top seeded team in the room. It happened to the Chicago player at the Spring NABC in Houston on the first day. Of course, it required 43 first-day byes. Miller's team was seeded 44th.

Sense of humor

Barry Rigal thought this note from the Internet was amusing:

A woman once said that a man is like a deck of playing cards.

A heart to love him.

A diamond to marry him.

A club to bash his (bleeping) head in.

A spade to bury the (bleep).

He didn't say whether his beloved Sue shares his view of the comparison.

Lighter on their feet

Egyptians Tarek Sadek and Walid Elahmady signed on to play on the George Jacobs team in the Vanderbilt months ago. After winning the event Saturday night, Sadek said he and his partner, both rather large men, had two reasons to thank Jacobs for inviting them to play.

First was the chance to win, which they did. Second, the invitation gave them an incentive to get in better physical condition to be able to stand the rigors of the tough bridge competition. "We went to the gym for three months," Sadek said. "I lost 45 pounds and Walid lost 15. We thank George for the chance to win but also because we are now healthier."

At the crossroad

Steve Goldstein found a way to bring home his pushy game in first qualifying session of the Jacoby Swiss Teams yesterday. His partner was Gary Brown and he was playing against Jim Krekorian and John Onstott:

West led the ♥A against 4♥ and continued with another taken in dummy with the jack. Goldstein played the ♠A, the ♠K and another, ruffing in dummy with the ♥Q as East discarded a low diamond. Declarer led the ◆3 and ruffed it and played the ♥K to draw the last trump.

At this point, Goldstein was at the crossroad. One path is to concede a spade and play for the A to be onside (and discard a low club on the A). He decided to take a different road. He led the 10 to the jack, king and ace. East exited with a diamond which he ruffed with his last trump. He continued with the 8, ducked. Declarer led another club, and when East won his Q, he had to play a diamond to dummy which was good.

At the other table, declarer was in 3♥ making three for a 7 IMP pickup for Goldstein's team.

REBECCA HYSER MEMORIAL STRATIFIED SWISS

Rebecca Hyzer was a rising bridge star in many ways. Not only was she an up-and-coming player but she was very gracious at the table with a friendly smile or word for everyone. She was dedicated to the game, achieving the rank of Life Master in a short amount of time. Throughout her courageous battle with cancer Rebecca still made time for bridge. Knowing that, it's likely she will be smiling when she sees that her friends are paying tribute to her by naming an event at the NABC in her honor.

MILTON FREEDMAN MEMORIAL BRACKETED KO

In the In Memoriam section of the December Bridge Bulletin there was a list of deceased bridge players. A number of them have an asterisk by their name denoting Life Master and Milton was one.

But he was not your ordinary Life Master. He was an excellent bridge player, poker player and entrepreneur who backed his unit financially, as well as playing with all comers. He loved people and would play with "the good, the bad, and the horrible".

When you think of Milton Life Master, remember that in real life and as a person he would have had over a million master points.
