Senior Gold for Canada/USA

The bronze medal went to The Netherlands Roald Ramer, Jan Willem Bomhof and Henk & Elly Schippers. Today's McConnell final is an all USA affair, Radin v Sanborn. In the Power Rosenblum we are down to four teams, from Indonesia, Poland, Sweden and Italy.

World Bridge Federation - Master Point Certificates

A First Look at the Pairs

While most of the attention is on the KO Teams, we sent our ace investigative reporter to watch the start of the Open Pairs Qualifying. There are plenty of big names in amongst the less well known players, so we could hope to see some good bridge.

We start with a look at Jaggy Shivdasani and Barnet Shenkin.

Barnet Shenkin

Pre-empts catch all of us from time to time and Rod Mackenzie's 3♣ opening caused big problems for his opponents. Shivdasani overcalled 3♦ and now Shenkin had the distribution to justify a move. Three No Trump was the normal rebid on the South cards and now perhaps Shenkin should have tried 4♦ - he was only worth his first bid because of the shape of his hand and the lack of a fitting diamond honour is a significant worry for 3NT. Bear in mind that partner would often have gambled 3NT at his first turn with running diamonds plus a club stopper.

Had Shenkin bid 4♦ over 3NT, Shivdasani would have tried 4♥. As long as that is understood to be natural, the best game is then reached. Leo Weniger led the queen of clubs against 3NT, ducked to the king. Shivdasani cashed a top heart then crossed to the ♠K and led a diamond to the king. Not being sure that the clubs were running, Weniger ducked that. Shivdasani cashed the other top heart and crossed to the ♠A to lead a second diamond up and now the defence had the rest; down three for -150.

Mark Lair showed spades and a minor and Shenkin made a game try over Shivdasani's limit-raise plus 2♠ bid. That was accepted and Lair led the queen of spades to dummy's ace. It looks right to play a diamond now to establish the discard for the spade loser, but Shenkin instead ran the jack of hearts. When the four-nil split appeared, he switched to diamonds - low, king, ace - and back came the ♠J. Shenkin won the king and took his pitch on the ♦Q then made the odd play of ruffing a diamond before playing ace and another club.

When Richard Finberg won the ♣K he returned a heart to declarer's eight. Shenkin led the ♣8 and decided to ruff it in dummy. That was over-ruffed and a heart return meant that he was left with a losing club at the end for down one; -100. Declarer would have been OK had he not played a round of trumps earlier, but also it appears that he succeeds if he does not ruff the third club.

East can ruff and play back his last trump, but there is now a trump left in dummy to take care of the last club.

The players had switched back to their correct polarities for this one so Lair was East and opened 1♣ in third seat. He passed the 1♠ response and Shenkin led a trump. Shivdasani won the ace and switched to a diamond for the jack and queen and back came a second trump. Finberg did well now by playing a heart to the ten, after which nothing could prevent ten tricks and a useful match-point score; +170.

Adam Wildavsky played this partscore nicely. He received the defence of three top clubs from Shivdasani and, of course, ruffed in dummy. Wildavsky played a diamond to the king and a second diamond to Shivdasani's ten. He led the fourth club and Shenkin ruffed with the ace. Now Shenkin switched to the ten of hearts, which was run to the king. Wildavsky played three rounds of spades, ruffing, then exited with his last diamond, throwing the spade from dummy. Shivdasani had to lead away from the ♥Q to give the ninth trick; +110.

Time to move onto a new N/S pair, Tim Cope and Glen Holman of South Africa. On this deal they faced Australia's Barry Noble and George Bilski. When Bilski opened the West hand with 1♦ after two passes, Noble responded 2♥, which I guess he intended to be weak, though Bilski was not so sure of that. When 2♥ came around to Cope, North, he shrugged his shoulders and made a take-out double. Holman responded 2♠ and played there.

The lead of the king of hearts did not do declarer any harm. He won the ace and ran the queen of spades to the king. Back came the ♦Q to dummy's ace. Holman drew the trumps, pitching a club from dummy, and had to play a club up to achieve the maximum. However, West had not sounded totally confident as to what the 2♥ bid would deliver, suggesting it might be a little stronger than was actually the case, so Holman instead played a diamond to the ten then cashed the ♥Q before playing a diamond to the jack and king. Bilski returned a diamond to the nine so that when Holman crossed to the ♥J and led a club up he could throw the ♣Q on the heart and keep a winning diamond with the ♣A; nine tricks for +140.

After a pass from Holman, Marc Bompis of France opened 1♥ and Cope tried an off-centre weak jump overcall of 2♠. Holman raised pre-emptively to 3♠ but that was not enough to keep Bompis silent. He doubled for take-out and Christian Mari judged well to leave it in.

The South African pair had been caught speeding and there was an on-the-spot fine of no less than 1100. Mari led the ♥K and switched to the seven of diamonds. Bompis won the king, cashed the red aces, then played another heart. Cope pitched his diamond loser on that and Mari ruffed. His club switch netted two tricks in that suit and now a fourth round of hearts promoted the ♠Q; down four!

We were not bringing much luck to Cope/Holman and so time to go and ruin another pair's score. This time the choice was the top Egyptian pairing of Tarek Sadek and Waleed El Ahmady.

With so many hearts in support of a two-level overcall, it was tough for Drew Casen not to go on to 5♥ as a two-way shot, hoping that one or other game was making. Perhaps Lee Rautenberg, who was very balanced for his overcall and held the ♠K, should have doubled 4♠? Sadek led the jack of spades against 5♥. El Ahmady won the ace and switched to the queen of clubs. Had he not switched to a club, declarer's club loser could have gone away on the diamonds so the switch was essential. Now, Rautenberg could draw trumps and play on diamonds but El Ahmady could win the ♦A and play a club to the king for down one; -50.

Judith Weisman opened 4♣ on the West cards and Sadek overcalled 4♦. When John Solodar raised to 5♣, El Ahmady doubled. OK, so what would you lead from the North hand? It is so unlikely that the remaining diamonds are going to be 2-2-2 round the table with opener holding the king that cashing the ace to take a look at dummy, hoping to then find the killing continuation, hardly looks to be unreasonable. That is what Sadek chose and that was the contract; +750.

Just two deals later Sadek was looking at ♦AQJxxx once again against Poland's Jaroslaw Cieslak and Jan Moszynski. When a Polish Club was opened on his right, he overcalled 1♦. El Ahmady responded INT and Sadek leaped to the no trump game. The opening lead was the ♥A, collecting a discouraging seven from East. On the ♠A switch, East encouraged with the five, so West played king and another spade to the jack. The jack of hearts return was covered by queen and king and declarer had the rest for one down; -50.

Sadek was probably hoping not to pick up that diamond holding again for a few days after the two results he achieved with it.

In the Wild

There was plenty of potential for swings in the second set of the Power Rosenblum round of 16 match between the Peter Fredin and Rose Meltzer teams - and the teams did not disappoint observers who like action.

Meltzer fielded Alan Sontag-Peter Weichsel against Peter Fredin-Magnus Lindkvist in the open room and Chip Martel-Lew Stansby against Fredrik Nystrom-Peter Stromberg in the closed room.

Meltzer earned 6 IMPs on a partscore swing when the team struck for a double-digit swing on the next deal.

Magnus Lindkvist

Lindkvist led the ♦4 and Fredin falsecarded by winning the ace. He switched to the ♠10 and Sontag considered his play carefully before rising with the ace. He played three rounds of trumps, ending in his hand, and played the ♣10 to Fredin's ace. When Fredin returned a club, it was obvious he had no more spades, so Sontag won the club in hand and passed the ♦Q to Fredin, who could do no better than return a diamond. Sontag won, ruffed his losing diamond and pitched his two spades on the good clubs. That was making for and plus 420 to the Meltzer team.

At the other table, North was declarer in 4♥. Stansby started with the ♣A, switching to his singleton spade at trick two. Stromberg put in the queen, losing to the king, and a club was returned to dummy's queen. Declarer then played a diamond to the 10 and ace and Stansby returned a club. Declarer discarded a spade from dummy, Martel ruffed and returned a spade, which Stansby ruffed. Declarer ruffed on the club return, then tried the ruffing finesse in diamonds. The defenders had six tricks: two high diamonds, the ♣A, ♠K, a spade ruff and a club ruff - down three for minus 150 and 11 IMPs to Meltzer.

Another 13 IMPs went to Meltzer when Fredin and Lindkvist got much too high on the following deal.

Fredin's first bid showed game-forcing values, at least five spades and one or no hearts. The rest of the auction is a mystery, although it is obvious Fredin believed the 4♥ bid showed a control. The deal was over quickly. Sontag led the ♣10 and Weichsel wasted no time cashing his three winners for plus 200 and another 13 IMPs for his side.

The Fredin team began their comeback quietly on the next deal with an overtrick IMP. On this one, Sontag had to play well to hold the loss to minus 200.

Fredin's 2♣ was natural and his 5♣ was cold. With the diamond suit frozen - neither North nor South can lead the suit without sacrificing their trick - and hearts 3-3, declarer can always come to 11 tricks.

In 5♠ doubled, Sontag received the lead of the ♣10. He went up with the ace, ruffed a club, played a spade to the ace and ruffed dummy's last club. He then played a spade to dummy and a diamond to the king and Lindkvist's ace. Back came a low heart, but Sontag went up with the king and played dummy's diamond. Fredin was stuck. He could cash the ♥Q but then he had to give Sontag a ruff-sluff and the rest of the tricks.

It was still a 3-IMP gain because the same contract was not doubled at the other table.

Fredin's biggest gain of the day came on a phantom sacrifice by Weichsel.

The defense was accurate. Fredin started with the ♣A, continuing with a low club. Lindkvist's ♠8 forced a high trump from Weichsel, assuring a trump trick for the defenders. Lindkvist quickly cashed the high diamonds and ♥A - and Fredin still had a trump trick to come. That was minus 500 and 12 IMPs to the Swedes because the 4♥ contract at the other table by East-West failed by two tricks.

On the next-to-last deal, a bid by Fredin made a risky bid that didn't cost a big minus but did keep his partner from finding what turned out to be the killing lead at the other table.

Fredin's 2♠ bid would not be the unanimous choice of a bidding panel, and it worked out poorly on this occasion. Lindkvist naturally led the ♠J, taken in dummy with the ace. Sontag cashed the other high spade, pitching a low diamond. When Sontag played a club from dummy, Fredin rose with the ace and shifted to the ♦9. That went to the king and ace, and Lindkvist cashed the ♦Q, then tried the jack. Sontag ruffed, however, ruffed a club to dummy and passed the ♥8 to Lindkvist. He tried a low diamond, ruffed by Fredin with the queen, but Sontag overruffed and claimed.

At the other table, Stansby did not bid, so Martel made the more normal lead of the ♣10. Stansby went up with the ace and fired the diamond back through. Two high diamonds were followed by a diamond ruff, and the defenders still had a trump trick coming for down one.

The final deal was a wild one on which aggressive bidding by Fredin paid off handsomely.

Lindkvist	Weichsel	Fredin	Sontag
Pass	4♣ ⁽²⁾	4♠	5♥
Pass	Pass	Dble	All Pass

⁽²⁾ Any solid eight-card suit.

Sontag knew what his partner's suit was, and Weichsel took the 5♥ bid as asking for spade controls. He did not have what was necessary to consider slam, of course, and it turned out he didn't even have the goods for 10 tricks in hearts. Fredin doubled, a la Lightner, and Lindkvist had no trouble figuring out which suit to lead. Fredin ruffed the club lead and cashed the ♠A before playing to his partner's ♠K. The ♦K completed the rout, knocking out the hand entry Sontag needed. He desperately tried the ♠Q, but Lindkvist ruffed, assuring a diamond loser.

The loss would have been greater for the Meltzer team except that Nystrom and Stromberg found their way to 6NT on the North-South cards and Martel and Stansby managed to get their two spade tricks before they went away on an avalanche of heart and club tricks. It was 9 IMPs away, but it could have been worse.

The set ended with Meltzer improving their lead to 77-66.

Round of 16 - Second Half

McConnell Cup

by Tony Gordon

Dhondy (England) trailed the Austrian holders by 15 IMPs at the halfway stage of their round of sixteen match, but they turned the match around in the second half and eventually won comfortably by 48 IMPs.

After the K♥ lead both declarers made thirteen tricks by ruffing four diamonds in hand, but that was 11 IMPs to Dhondy.

Thirteen tricks were also available, this time in hearts and on any lead, on board 7. Again it was Dhondy who bid the small slam while Austria languished in game. The 13-IMP gain put Dhondy ahead by 11 IMPs, but a misdefence cost them a game swing on board 8 and Austria regained the lead on the next board.

However, an 8-IMP gain on the last board of the quarter saw Dhondy take a slim lead of 6 IMPs into the final set.

Rhona Goldenfield also led a spade against Weigkricht's 3NT and declarer won in hand and turned her attention to the heart suit. The best line for three tricks with this combination is not obvious, but cashing the AK was not the winning approach on the actual layout and, in due course, Michelle Brunner took five tricks for the defence for +100 and 12 IMPs to Dhondy.

Sylvia Terraneo led the ♦4 against Goldenfield's 3NT and this was covered in turn by the jack, queen and ace. Declarer advanced the ♠2 at trick two and East took her king and continued with a low diamond. Goldenfield rose with dummy's ten and eventually made three club tricks, three hearts, two diamonds and two spades for +630 to Dhondy.

Nicola Smith lead a club against Erhart's 4♥ and dummy's jack was allowed to win the first trick. Declarer continued with a heart to her king, and could no longer make the contract. She now played ace and another trump and Dhondy won her jack and switched to her spade. This was allowed to run to Smith's king and Dhondy ruffed the spade return. There was still a diamond trick to come for the defence so declarer was one down for +100 and another 12 IMPs to Dhondy.

That result left Dhondy leading by 29 IMPs and it was all downhill for the holders from there with Dhondy eventually winning the set 55-13 and the match 170-122.

It can be very tempting to double when you have a lot of trumps, but sometimes appearances can be deceptive, as on this deal from the Senior Teams:

East thought he was on to a good thing, but declarer soon proved otherwise. West started with three rounds of diamonds and declarer ruffed. He knew the trumps were 5-0 so he cashed two hearts and then set about the clubs, discarding a heart on the third round. When he played another club East had no answer.

Declarer can even take out insurance, cashing a high spade at trick four.

At the other table, declarer contrived to go one down.

East's Two Clubs was forcing to game. When South came in to show his two suiter North was not put off by the vulnerability and took a pot at game. Larry Cohen though it was just about possible that his side might have a slam, so he passed, intending to remove partner's possible penalty double. However, when West showed some support for clubs he realised that it might be a good idea to play from his side, so he simply passed and Five Clubs became the final contract.

South's opening lead was a brilliant four of spades, but it was dummy who produced the king and that card won the first trick. Declarer was not yet out of the woods, but he asked himself why South had underled the ace of spades? A heart void was possible but much more likely was a vital diamond holding, so backing his judgement Larry cashed the queen of clubs and then played a club to the ten for a brilliant +440.

An Outrageous Piece of Luck

by Sam Leckie

In the last sixteen of the Power Rosenblum the strong Italian Lavazza team met Cayne's American squad. In the Open Room Levin - Weinstein tackled Lauria - Versace.

It did not take long to see why the Italian pair is reckoned one of the best in the world.

The ace of clubs was led and the contract was three down, -150, scant reward for a vulnerable game in hearts for North/South, duly bid in the other room for 10 IMPs to Lavazza.

On board six Versace came a vulnerable cropper when he preempted Three Diamonds over a One Club opener with:

The king of spades was led and Levin was not a happy declarer on seeing dummy. However when he played a heart to his king and East discarded his frown changed to a smile - and no wonder! The Italians bid it but went one down to lose an undeserved 11 IMPs. (The chance of East being void is 11%)

COMMENT DEFENDRIEZ-VOUS?

par Julie Fajgelzon

Ghassan Menachi m'a offert cette petite main amusante que je vais vous présenter d'abord comme problème défensif.

Votre partenaire entame du roi de carreau et vous jouez le 7 pour l'encourager. Il continue avec la dame et le valet de carreau. Sur le 3ème carreau le déclarant défausse l'as de trèfle du mort. Que faites-vous?

J'espère que vous avez pris la levée avec votre as. Le déclarant défausse le 4 de coeur de sa main. Comment procédez-vous?

J'espère que vous avez joué votre coeur. Si vous poursuivez par un autre tour de carreau, votre partenaire ne pourra plus vous rejoindre pour le 5ème carreau, qui bat la main. Si vous jouez coeur maintenant, quoi qu'il fasse, le déclarant ne pourra plus gagner. Voici les autres jeux:

Vous pouvez voir l'effet de votre manoeuvre. Le déclarant ne pourra pas prendre le premier coeur puisque ses trèfles sont encore bloqués et l'as de coeur est sa seule reprise de main. Il devra donc vous laisser maître à coeur et vous réaliserez 5 levées à carreau, une à coeur et une à pique pour battre le contrat.

Voici ce qui s'est produit. Les défenseurs ont défilé tous leurs carreaux avant de jouer coeur et le déclarant a donc eu le temps de débloquer l'as, le roi et la dame de trèfle. De sa main il a défaussé le 4 et la dame de coeur (cachant le 2), et le 3 de pique.

Sur le retour coeur, il a pris de son as tout de suite et a défilé tous ses trèfles. Il ne lui restait qu'une seule carte à la fin et Ouest ne savait pas laquelle garder: l'as de pique ou le roi de coeur. Il a défaussé le roi de coeur et Menachi a donc fait la dernière levée avec son deux! Tous les matchpoints mais malheureusement il jouait auximps.
